Enhancing Communication Through DiSC®

NEW

Understanding and adjusting to others' styles is key for effective communication, collaboration, and alignment.

The DiSC® model is a simple tool that helps people understand themselves and others, so they can learn to connect and build relationships with different kinds of people. In this session, you'll learn more about yourself and how you interact with others. Explore the four styles and learn how each style contributes and adds value on a team. Learn to adjust your behaviour to improve how you work with your colleagues and get better results.

How You'll Benefit

- Improved sharing of information, problem-solving, collaboration, and relationships with colleagues
- Stronger one-on-one relationships for better coaching, feedback, and performance discussions
- Shared vocabulary for discussing personal styles to support team culture and alignment

What You'll Cover

- Understand what drives your behaviour, including your motivations, inclinations, priorities, and stressors
- Increase awareness of other styles, the value they bring, and how their motivations, inclinations, priorities, and stressors are different from yours
- Recognize how and when to adapt your behaviour to communicate and interact more effectively with others
